On November 3rd, the Democratic Party gained control of both houses of the U.S. Congress, in spite of gerrymandering and voter suppression attempts by Trump's Republicans. The "Blue Tsunami" includes politicians of various stripes, including some genuine progressives. At the same time the anointed Speaker of the House remains bathed in oil, and there will not be any tax on wealth in California, which would have been the first in the country. Our speakers will address some of the issues raised by the election results, local, statewide, and national.
