

David Ray Griffin and the 911 Truth Movement nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize by:

Dr Andreas von Bülow

Von Bülow received his doctoral degree in law in Heidelberg in 1969, and was a Member of the German Parliament (Deutscher Bundestag) 1969-1994, where he served on "der Parlamentarischen Kontrollkommission" (PKK), the parliamentary commission which oversees the three branches of the German intelligence/security services. He also served as a State Secretary of the Minister for Defense 1976-1980 and as a German Cabinet Minister for Research and Technology 1980-1982 (under Chancellor Helmut Schmidt). In early 1990s, he served on the parliamentary inquiry investigating organized crime and intelligence activities of the former East Germany. Later, he has been working as a lawyer. He has written books on intelligence services and the 911 events (a.buelow@online.de).

Prof John B. Cobb, Jr.

Cobb joined the US Army in 1943. After his PhD in 1952, he taught at the Candler School of Theology of Emory University, Atlanta, Georgia. In 1958, he moved to the Claremont School of Theology, California. In 1971, with Lewis Ford, he started the journal of Process Studies, and in 1973, together with David Ray Griffin, he founded the Center for Process Studies, where the two of them were co-directors. Cobb has held many positions, including Ingraham Professor of Theology at the Claremont School of Theology, Avery Professor at the Claremont Graduate School, Fullbright Professor at the University of Mainz, Visiting Professor at Vanderbilt, Harvard, and Chicago Divinity Schools. He is now Professor Emeritus at Claremont School of Theology. He has written numerous books (cobbj@cgu.edu).

Prof Richard Falk

Falk is Alfred G. Milbank Professor of International Law Emeritus at Princeton University and Visiting Distinguished Professor in Global and International Studies at the University of California, Santa Barbara. In 2001 he served on a three person Human Rights Inquiry Commission for the Palestine Territories that was appointed by the United Nations, and previously, on the Independent International Commission on Kosovo. He is the author or co-author of numerous books. He serves as Chair of the Nuclear Age Peace Foundation's Board of Directors and has been an honorary vice president of the American Society of International Law. Falk also acted as counsel for Ethiopia and Liberia in the Southwest Africa Cases before the International Court of Justice. Falk wrote the foreword to David Ray Griffin's book The New Pearl Harbor. (rfalk@princeton.edu; falk@global.ucsb.edu).

Prof Marcus Ford

Ford is Professor of Humanities, Northern Arizona University. He received his doctoral degree from Claremont Graduate School in 1972. He has published and edited several books on topics ranging from reforming higher education to the philosophy of William James (Marcus.Ford@nau.edu).

Prof Catherine Keller

Keller is Professor of Constructive Theology in the Theological and Graduate Schools of Drew University, Madison, New Jersey. She teaches and writes on contemporary theological and religious studies, feminist studies and post-structuralist theory. After undergraduate studies in theology in Heidelberg, Germany, she pursued doctoral studies at Claremont Graduate School, in conjunction with the Center for Process Studies. With John B. Cobb, Jr. as her advisor, she received her Ph.D in 1984. She has written and edited many books, and she has co-authored one book together with Richard Falk and David Ray Griffin (ckeller@bookbuzz.com).

Prof. David MacGregor

MacGregor is Professor of Sociology, King's University College at the University of Western Ontario, Canada. He has his PhD from London School of Economics. He is a contributor along with David Ray Griffin to The hidden history of 911. MacGregor has written books and book chapters on German philosophy, deep politics and Machiavellian state terrorism (macbishop@sympatico.ca).

Prof John McMurtry

McMurtry is Professor of Philosophy and University Professor Emeritus of University of Guelph, Ontario, Canada, and a Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada. He received his PhD in 1975 at the University College, London. He has been selected by the United Nations as the principal author and editor of the multi-volume set: Philosophy and World Problems. He has published numerous books and contributed to a volume edited by David Ray Griffin (mcmurtry@uoguelph.ca).

Prof Peter Phillips

Phillips is Professor of Sociology, Sonoma State University, Rohnert Park, California. He is director of Project Censored, author of several books and chief editor of the annual Project Censored books which uncover vital news neglected by the major media. He has his PhD from University of California 1994. He has also contributed to a volume edited by David Ray Griffin (peter.phillips@sonoma.edu).

Prof Albert Stahel

Stahel is Professor of Political Science and Strategic Studies at the University of Zürich and Professor Emeritus for Strategic Studies at the Military Academy (MILAK), ETH Zürich. He is Vice-President for the forum "Humanitäre Schweiz" from 2006. He received his doctoral degree at the University of Zürich in 1973 and his Habilitation in 1979. He has served as Professor for International Relations Département des Sciences Politiques, Université de Genève. He is also Director of the Institute for Strategic Studies. He has written numerous contributions on military strategy, terrorism, organized crime and asymmetric warfare. He is also a retired lieutenant-colonel (albert.stahel@strategische-studien.com).

Prof Berit Ås

Ås is Professor Emeritus and was a professor in Social Psychology, Oslo University Norway 1968-1994. She has been Member of the Norwegian Parliament 1973-1976, Member of the Parliamentary Foreign Affairs Committee and the first leader of the Socialist Leftwing Party of Norway (now in the Coalition Government with the Norwegian Labour Party and Center Party). She has led several campaigns for women's rights in Norway and is a former President of the International Federation of University Women in Norway. She has been visiting professor and honorary doctor at several universities (asberit1@online.no).