ELEPHANTS

- Elephants are being brutally slaughtered in Africa for their ivory
- At least 35,000 elephants were killed last year – that's 100 a day, 1 every 15 minutes
- There are fewer than 300,000 elephants left
- Elephants in the wild face extinction in less than 10 years
- Profits from the sale of ivory are used to fund terrorist groups

RHINOS

- Most rhinos live in South Africa where they are being exterminated by poachers
- 13 rhinos were slaughtered in 2007-in 2013 over 1,000 were killed in South Africa alone. In 2014 the pace of killing has not let up, averaging two rhinos poached every day
- Only about 25,000 rhinos are left in the wild
- Rhino horn is prized by traditional Asian medicine, especially in Vietnam where the largest amount of rhino horn is consumed
