On Jan. 21st, 2009, after waiting ten hours at the border between Egypt and Gaza, Barbara Lubin entered the Gaza Strip. Come join us to hear her story about what she saw.

"The destruction and trauma in the Gaza Strip is even greater than I expected," says Lubin. She saw bombed out homes and universities, overcrowded UN schools, and people were given just minutes to evacuate their homes.

Sabreen, a young woman from Rafah, told Lubin, "We are a strong people. No matter how many times Israel bombs us we are not leaving."
