

GROUND ZERO - BAY AREA HOUSING CRISIS AN EDUCATIONAL PUBLIC FORUM

Reclaim May Day as a Working Class Holiday
Sunday, May 3rd, 1PM to 5PM, Vallejo Public Library
-Inside the Joseph Room-

Come learn the real history of May Day as a historic event for working people in the United States, and how we can come together along the same lines today to defend and improve our neighborhoods and schools in this time of crisis. Despite the prevailing mentality that home foreclosures are a private problem of individual households, the public at large has been effected through drastic cuts in funding for public education, transportation and services. Friday the 13th was Pink Friday throughout the state, and in Vallejo alone some 290 teachers district wide, and 50% of teachers at one major high school were given advisory "Pink Slip" notices of possible budgetary lay-off in May. There will be a brief legal presentation informing home owners of their options and rights in negotiating with financial institutions, and also information for renters. We can be more effective in re-building and re-vitalizing our communities through united collective action, rather than as atomized individuals.

May Day presentation by labor historian Gifford Hartman - 1pm
Legal Presentation with question and answer session with attorney Bob Evans - 2pm

Informal discussion, refreshments, and showing segment of the Movie Salt of the Earth - 4pm
