

SUPPORT THE AETA 4--FUNDS NEEDED!

The AETA4 are four individuals –Adriana Stumpo, Nathan Pope, Joseph Buddenberg, and Maryam Khajavi– facing federal charges under the Animal Enterprise Terrorism Act (AETA) for allegedly having “demonstrated outside the private residences of several University of California Berkeley researchers” and of having “marched, chanted, and chanted defamatory comments on the public sidewalks in front of the residences.” The FBI also claims that some defendants produced or distributed flyers containing the home addresses of vivisectors.

The AETA jeopardizes our very right to protest by prohibiting any sort of “interference” with an animal enterprise – whether it be a circus or a vivisection laboratory – that allegedly places another person in fear for his or her safety.

The AETA will be tested for the first time in this prosecution. We have the opportunity to assemble a strong defense team to challenge this law and defeat these charges—but we need your help.
