Nicole Garneau is a Chicago-based interdisciplinary artist making site-specific performance and project art that often addresses a political issue. She is interested in creating work that is directly political, critically conscious, and community building. Her current projects are UPRISING: 5 years of monthly outdoor performances exploring practices of revolution, and EVIDENCE: a series of color postcards documenting the work for subscribers. UPRISING and EVIDENCE are supported by Chicago's Links Hall. Her work is documented at www.nicolegarneau.com.
