

The Native Movement for Food Justice & Sovereignty

Indigenous Perspectives on Food, Fair Trade, & the Struggle to Maintain Land Based Livelihoods

An Evening Keynote & Conversation

Keynote Speaker: Winona LaDuke

Winona is an Anishinaabekwe (Ojibwe) enrolled member of the Mississippi Band Anishinaabeg who lives and works on the White Earth Reservations, and is the mother of three children. As a graduate of Harvard and Antioch Universities, Winona has written extensively on Native American and Environmental issues. She is a former board member of Greenpeace USA and serves, as co-chair of the Indigenous Women's Network, a North American and Pacific indigenous women's organization. In 1994, Winona was nominated by Time magazine as one of America's fifty most promising leaders under forty years of age. She has been awarded the Thomas Merton Award in 1996, the BIHA Community Service Award in 1997, the Ann Bancroft Award for Women's Leadership Fellowship, and the Reebok Human Rights Award, with which she began the White Earth Land Recovery Project.

Where: UCSC Arboretum
Horticulture II Meeting Room

When: December 7th, 7:30-9:00pm

Event sponsored by: Center for Agroecology & Sustainable Food Systems, Domestic Fair Trade Association, Swanton Berry Farm, Student Environmental Center, Measure 43, Food Systems Working Group, & the Campus Sustainability Office,

*This event is free and accessible to all. For disability needs requests or other inquires please contact: Tim at 831-459-3248 or email: tgalarne@ucsc.edu
Event site info can be found: <http://arboretum.ucsc.edu/visit/directions/>*

