

“ Growing up in a small town in Louisiana, as Catholics, we did not question our segregated schools or ask why the black members of our Church had to sit in the last five pews during Mass. Nor did we, needless to say, question why women could not be priests... the time has arrived in the long history of the Church to break our silence and create a new model of being church. ”

Informative, beautifully filmed and edited, Pink Smoke Over The Vatican will inspire any woman or man who has experienced marginalization to stand up to power, no matter the odds, and follow their true call. Father Roy has been a life-long advocate for justice. For speaking out for women's ordination the Vatican has accused Father Roy of "grave scandal" and has threatened him with excommunication. Come listen to Father Roy's impassioned talk after viewing the movie, Pink Smoke Over the Vatican.
