Mexico-US Caravan for Peace Participants Speak

Tuesday, November 6, 12:30 - 1:30 PM
Global Exchange
2017 Mission St. second floor, San Francisco

The Caravan for Peace with Justice and Dignity that traversed 5,600 miles across the United States in August and September brought together dozens of victims of violence in Mexico with activists, law enforcement, community leaders and journalists from both the US and Mexico to address the US role in drug war violence.

Take your lunch hour on election day to join Olga Reyes Salazar of Mexico's Movement for Peace with Justice and Dignity, Ted Lewis of Global Exchange, Roberto Lovato of Presente.org, Daniel Robelo of the Drug Policy Alliance, Theresa Cameranesi of SOA Watch, John Lindsay-Poland of Fellowship of Reconciliation and others to hear about this historic pilgrimage.

Please bring a brown bag lunch.
