- The administration is offering an unacceptably low salary restoration for full-time faculty, but none for part-timers.
- With plans to cut classes by as much as 26%, the future of many jobs is in question, especially for part-timers, while the remaining classes will increase in size and faculty salary will be based on “productivity” (class size).
- As pay and working conditions worsen and class sizes increase, students’ learning conditions are also eroded.
