

The Institute for the Critical Study of Society at the Niebyl-Proctor Marxist Library

Sunday Morning at the Marxist Library

TWENTY FIRST CENTURY SOCIALISM: A FRAMEWORK FOR SCIENTIFIC ANALYSIS

No longer a utopian dream, socialism has been in existence for a century, yet there have been few attempts to understand socialism in a scientific manner. In this talk, ICSS member Eugene E Ruyle, Emeritus Professor of Anthropology at Cal State Long Beach, will use the scientific socialism of Marx, Engels, and Lenin as a framework for understanding the first hundred years of socialism and what this means for the global future of humanity.

NOTE: While I support the Bolivarian Revolution of Hugo Chavez and other Latin American Leaders, this program will NOT focus particularly on the 'Socialism for the 21st Century' as espoused by various left intellectuals. Instead, it will follow our earlier program on Twentieth Century Socialism and look at the global situation of socialism in the Twenty First Century, focusing primarily on Socialism with Chinese Characteristics. Consideration of Bernie-Style Socialism in the United States will be postponed until late Spring or Summer.

Sun, Mar 10, 2019 – 10:30am-12:30pm
6501 Telegraph Ave, Oakland (just North of Alcatraz Ave.)
FREE - but hat will be passed for donations to NPML

About Sunday Morning at the Marxist Library

A weekly discussion series inspired by our respect for the work of Karl Marx and our belief that his work will remain as important for the class struggles of the future as they have been for the past.

For info or to subscribe to our weekly announcements,
Call Eugene Ruyle at 510-332-3865 or email: cuyleruyle@mac.com

For our full schedule, go to icssmarx.org

Labor donated by ICSS volunteers