The United States has been attacking Cuba continuously ever since they overthrew the U.S.-backed Batista regime in 1959, imposing an economic blockade, providing a base for terrorist attacks, and various other means. The Trump Administration has escalated this ongoing assault by cutting off the flow of oil to the island, creating a devastating energy crisis. Our speakers will talk about how all of this is affecting the people of Cuba, how they're dealing with it, and what we can do to help.
